Athens at a Glance

SARAH ANN WHITE

UGA North Campus

Athens is a special place: a small town with welcoming people, a big university and many of the amenities of a big city, like vibrant music, arts and food scenes—at least when there's not a pandemic going on. It hasn't always been that way, though. Recent elections have brought a renewed interest in issues of equity of social justice. With that in mind, here's some background through that lens on Athens' history and the current political landscape.

HOW WE GOT HERE

Athens and the University of Georgia have been intertwined from the beginning. The state legislature chartered UGA in 1785, making ours the oldest public university in the country, despite the fact that an upstart school in North Carolina erected a building before we did. Future governor John Milledge, who bought the university's initial 633 acres from early settler Daniel Easley in 1801, named the village-to-be for the Greek cradle of philosophy. Easley, who knew a deal when one came riding up, retained the adjacent land and was happy to sell off his lots to the villagers. Although UGA was situated in the woods to keep it far away from the evil influences of taverns, the villagers quickly learned how to cater to students, and at present, this cradle of philosophy boasts around 100 bars.

The county is named for Elijah Clarke, a Revolutionary War hero who ambushed the British in a swamp down the road at the Battle of Kettle Creek. After the war, he attempted to set up his own nation—the Trans-Oconee Republic—which attacked the Creek Indians and eventually became involved in the Yazoo Land Fraud. Our namesake: right or wrong!

Athens was incorporated in 1806. In the decades that followed, the town became known as the “Manchester of the South” because of its cotton mills. James Camak led the building of the city's first railroad, connecting Athens to Augusta in 1841.

Other than a minor skirmish, Athens saw no action during the Civil War but participated nonetheless. The Cook and Bros. armory across the river from downtown—now the Chicopee-Dudley building—manufactured rifles for the Confederacy. On a lighter note, local dentist John Gilleland devised a double-barreled cannon that failed spectacularly when tested. The chain connecting the balls snapped, knocking over a chimney and killing a cow. The cannon is now displayed outside City Hall, facing north.

Many prominent rebels—including Confederate Vice President Alexander H. Stephens, former U.S. House Speaker Howell Cobb and his brother, T.R.R. Cobb, whose writings defended slavery—had ties to Athens. Plantation slave labor funded the construction of many grand antebellum homes, such as those of the Cobb brothers. T.R.R. Cobb's home is now a house museum in the Cobbham neighborhood. A downtown Confederate monument, though, has been removed to a spot off the Loop 10 highway.

By the turn of the century, Athens had public schools, a police force and its first streetcar suburbs: Cobbham, Boulevard and Five Points. (The last remaining streetcar-stop shelter can be seen at the corner of Lumpkin and Cedar streets.) In 1891, the State Normal School, a teacher's college, opened in what's now called Normaltown. The U.S. Navy took over the college in the 1950s, training its supply corpsmen there. When the Navy school moved to Rhode Island in 2011, UGA acquired the property and turned it into a health sciences campus in conjunction with Augusta University.

In the early 20th Century, Black-owned businesses were flourishing downtown on the Hot Corner at Hull and Washington streets, centered around the Morton Theatre, which was built by wealthy developer Monroe “Pink” Morton, the son of a former slave. But race relations remained tense. Hamilton Holmes and Charlayne Hunter integrated UGA in 1961, sparking near-riots. In 1964, Athens Klansmen murdered Lemuel Penn, a black Army Reserve officer who was passing through town late at night. Marches and sit-ins were held at the popular fast-food restaurant The Varsity (recently closed). Local public schools didn't fully integrate until 1970, 16 years after Brown v. Board of Education. This was also the time of “urban renewal,” which tore down whole Black neighborhoods, such as Linnestown, on Baxter Hill, which was razed in the early 1960s to make way for new UGA high-rise dorms.

A decade later, the Model Cities program brought millions of dollars in federal money to provide much-needed infrastructure—street paving, water lines and sewerage, structural rehabilitation and a neighborhood health center—to East Athens, a predominately Black and poor area of town. Model Cities, through its citizen-participation component, also empowered a generation of Black citizens who went on to elected and appointed positions within the governmental and civic life of Athens.

Downtown largely emptied out when Georgia Square Mall opened on Atlanta Highway in 1981, paving the way for Athens to become the music mecca it is today. R.E.M. was about to hit it big, and, fueled by low-interest loans from the new Athens Downtown Development Authority, entrepreneurs took advantage of the vacancies to open venues that quickly became popular—some even iconic, like the 40 Watt Club, the Georgia Theatre and the late-lamented Caledonia Lounge.

Clarke County and the City of Athens, after two previous failed attempts, merged in 1990, and the newly unified Athens-Clarke County elected Gwen O’Looney as its first female chief executive and first progressive mayor.

Today, the mall is struggling and may be redeveloped, while downtown has become in some ways a victim of its own success. The proliferation of luxury apartment complexes has brought rising rents and more chain businesses, increasingly catering to (mostly white) students and pushing locally owned businesses out into the Five Points, Normaltown and Chase Park areas. Historically Black neighborhoods like East Athens and the Hancock Corridor that have suffered for decades from lack of investment are now ripe for gentrification.

These issues and more galvanized voters in 2018. They swept five new, more liberal commissioners into office and chose another progressive, Kelly Girtz, as mayor in a landslide. The new group is now tackling issues like affordable housing and criminal justice reform. Girtz is running for re-election this year, and odd-numbered commission seats will also be on the nonpartisan ballot May 24.

HOW TO GET INVOLVED

Flagpole’s City Dope column is a great resource for keeping up with local politics.

The ACC Commission includes 10 members, each representing a district, and the mayor, who is elected countywide and presides over meetings but only votes in case of a tie. An appointed manager runs the government’s day-to-day operations. The commission meets at least three times a month: Work sessions, where staff give presentations on upcoming decisions, are at 5:30 p.m. on the second Tuesday; agenda-setting meetings, which include further discussion as well as public input, are at 6 p.m. on the third Tuesday; voting meetings are at 6 p.m. on the first Tuesday of the following month. When not held remotely, all three are at City Hall (301 College Ave.) and televised on Channel 180 on Charter cable and streamed at youtube.com/accgov. Agendas and contact information for county officials are available at accgov.com.

The Clarke County Board of Education, composed of nine members who elect a president from among themselves, meets at the new headquarters on the former Piedmont College campus (595 Prince Avenue) on the first and second Thursdays of the month at 6 p.m. Superintendent Xernona Thomas heads the Clarke County School District. Its website is clarke.k12.ga.us. Agendas are posted at boarddocs.com/ga/clarke/Board.nsf/Public 24 hours before the meeting.

Although Athens votes reliably Democratic, Republicans in the Georgia legislature have kindly used their mathematical skills to arrange the districts so that Athens is represented by five Republicans and just one Democrat in the state legislature. Republicans still dominate both the House and the Senate, despite losing seats in 2018, when Gov. Brian Kemp only narrowly defeated Democrat Stacey Abrams (without much help from his hometown of Athens). The state flipped blue in 2020, sending senators Raphael Warnock and Jon Ossoff and President Joe Biden to Washington. The General Assembly meets for 40 working days a year, starting on the second Monday in January and usually ending sometime in late March (in time for the Masters golf tournament). Check legis.ga.gov to contact legislators, read the text of bills and watch the action on livestream.

Athens has numerous activist groups working on labor, discrimination, LGBTQ, immigration, transportation and other issues. An incomplete list includes the Clarke County Democrats (clarkecounty.com), Athens Anti-Discrimination Movement (aadmovement.org), Athens Immigrant Rights Coalition (athensimmigrantrights.org), Athens PRIDE (athenspride.org),

Want to reduce your carbon footprint? Use Public Transit.

Carbon Emissions by Transportation Sector

Transportation is the second largest source of U.S. greenhouse gas emissions, with passenger vehicles making up 57% of these emissions. If you are serious about reducing your carbon footprint, the most effective action you can take is to leave the car behind and hop on the bus!

Public Transit is fare-free for everyone in Clarke County, which can save you thousands of dollars each year. Switching to public transit results in better air quality, reduced gridlock, infrastructure costs and parking needs. There are also proven health benefits to using public transportation thanks to the daily walk to the bus, reduced stress, and increased social interaction.

Ready to make a difference in your finances, health and the environment? Visit: accgov.com/transit

WHY DRIVE When you can RIDE for FREE!

Fare-free rides & 7-day service make it easy to leave the car behind! Skip the parking hassles, save money & the environment with ACC Transit.

For your safety, buses are sanitized frequently, masks are required and you can see how many people are on each bus in real-time through the myStop app.

United Campus Workers of Georgia (wcwga.org), BikeAthens (bikeathens.org), Young Democrats of UGA (facebook.com/YoungDemsUGA), Young Democratic Socialists (facebook.com/AthensYDSA), College Republicans (ugarepublicans.com), Athens GOP (athensgop.com) and the Libertarian Party of Athens (facebook.com/AthensLP). Many campus group meetings are open to non-students.

When restrictions on gatherings aren't in place, UGA also hosts nearly daily lectures, exhibitions, readings and discussion groups that are open to the public; check Flagpole's Calendar or calendar.uga.edu for the latest.

HOW TO GET AROUND

WALK/BIKE: Downtown, North Campus and most intown neighborhoods are compact and easy to navigate on foot or bike. BikeAthens has a map of bike paths. (Drivers, remember to stop for pedestrians, and allow three feet between your car and bicyclists!) The North Oconee River Greenway runs from Sandy Creek Nature Center through downtown to College Station Road, except for one gap near Oconee Hill Cemetery still under construction. The Firefly Trail runs from The Mark development on the southern edge of downtown east to Hancock Road and will eventually extend to downtown Winterville. A modern trestle based on the partially destroyed one pictured on the back cover of R.E.M.'s Murmur is also planned.

DRIVE: On-street parking downtown is $1.50 per hour between 8 a.m.–10 p.m. Monday–Saturday, with a two-hour time limit from 8 a.m.–6 p.m. Meters accept cards and coins. Tickets will run you $20–$25. Avoid the risk by parking in a deck—they're free for the first half-hour (and all day Sunday) and $1 per hour after that. Most surface lots are operated at night and on weekends by National Parking, which usually charges $5 and can tow or boot you if you don't pay. On campus, surface lots are permit-only, so visitors should park in a deck. See downtownathensga.org and parking.uga.edu for more.

TAKE A CAB: Athens taxis are mostly large vans shared with other passengers. Fares aren't metered; they're based on zones and should be posted inside the cab. Vans gather by the Arch late at night. Expect to be asked whether you're going to the Eastside or Westside. With multiple stops to make, the ride might take a while. Uber and Lyft also operate in Athens.

TAKE A BUS: Athens Transit (athenstransit.com) buses leave in all directions from the Multimodal Center on East Broad Street, down the hill from downtown. At present, both Athens Transit and Campus Transit (transit.uga.edu) are free and open to the public—just hop on, but wear a mask. Campus buses mostly run through campus (duh), with additional routes from the main campus to the Health Sciences Campus in Normaltown and the Veterinary Teaching Hospital on the Eastside that don't stop in between. Both agencies have apps that allow you to find stops and track buses.

SKIP TOWN: Southeastern Stages (southeasternstages.com) intercity buses leave from 4020 Atlanta Hwy. Groome Transportation (groometransportation.com) will take you from one of several pick-up locations to Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport in Atlanta. Athens is still searching for a commercial aviation carrier to fly into and out of our spiffy airport. Amtrak's Crescent (amtrak.com) stops in Gainesville on its run between New Orleans and New York City. Athens may one day be a stop on a proposed high-speed rail line between Atlanta and Charlotte, but likely not for decades.

Art Around Town

"Origins" by Peter McCarron, David Hale and David Harrison

Athens has a handful of interesting galleries, and even more eye-catching artwork can be found around town, adding bursts of color and character to the walls of coffee houses, restaurants, bars and shops. Check Flagpole's Art Around Town for a weekly list of current exhibitions. Organizations like the Athens Cultural Affairs Commission and Athens Area Arts Council continue to fund public art projects, while many working artists frequently show off their studios during open houses and seasonal sales. For info on receptions and events, check Flagpole's calendar in print and at flagpole.com.

The Athenaeum

287 W. Broad St. • art.uga.edu/athenaeum

Curated by Dodd Galleries director Katie Geha, the Athenaeum is a downtown contemporary art space focused on internationally and nationally acclaimed artists and cross-disciplinary conversation.

Athens Institute for Contemporary Art (ATHICA)

675 Pulaski St., Ste. 1200 • 706-850-7770 • athica.org

ATHICA balances Athens-centric exhibitions with those of professional contemporary artists from across the globe. Currently celebrating its 20th anniversary, the all-volunteer organization successfully purchased its building last year. In addition to traditional opening receptions, exhibitions are often accompanied by educational workshops, performances and panel discussions with artists.

ATHICA@Ciné Gallery

234 W. Hancock Ave. • 706-353-3343 • athenscine.com

More than just an indie movie theater, Ciné is also a venue for visual art. The exhibit space runs down the main entrance and is curated through a partnership with ATHICA. Art can be viewed during the same hours as the theater, but you don't have to buy movie tickets to check it out or enjoy opening receptions.

Aurum Studios

125 E. Clayton St. • 706-546-8826 • aurumstudios.com

With multiple in-house jewelers, Aurum specializes in custom jewelry. The shop also offers pottery, painting, woodwork and metalwork, the majority of which was made by local artists. Aurum occasionally hosts special exhibitions.

The Classic Center

300 N. Thomas St. • 706-208-0900 • classiccenter.com

In addition to awarding grants and scholarships, the Classic Center Cultural Foundation exists to fund the purchase of local art, which adorns the large walls of the conference and events venue. Some art remains on view permanently, while even more changes biannually.

Creature Comforts Brewing Co.

271 W. Hancock Ave. • 706-410-1043 • getcurious.com/get-artistic Creature Comforts' Get Artistic initiative aims to fund and promote art in its many forms: visual art, performance, music and writing. In addition to exhibitions curated by Madeline Bates Blankenship, the brewery hosts artist talks, craft workshops, art parties and other enrichment opportunities.

The Dodd Galleries

270 River Road • 706-542-1511 • art.uga.edu/galleries

UGA's renowned art school neighbors the Georgia Museum of Art. In addition to the popular BFA exit shows, which showcase the works of graduating students near the end of each semester, galleries host exhibitions by students, faculty members and visiting artists that rotate year-round. Regular events include receptions and lectures by artists and art historians.

Flicker Theatre and Bar

263 W. Washington St. • 706-546-0039 • flickertheatreandbar.com

In addition to a jam-packed calendar of concerts, film screenings and trivia nights, Flicker showcases a different local artist along its iconic orange wall every month. Upcoming highlights include Mark Dalling, a goth art show, Marisa Mustard, Jeff Rapiere and Gary Autry.

Georgia Museum of Art

90 Carlton St. • 706-542-4662 • georgiamuseum.org

Georgia's official art museum, located on UGA's East Campus, houses a large permanent collection of paintings, prints, decorative arts, sculpture and more. This season's diverse lineup includes "Jennifer Steinkamp: The Technologies of Nature," "Lou Stovall: Of Land and Origins," "Graphic Eloquence: American Modernism on Paper from the Collection of Michael T. Ricker" and "Carrie Mae Weems: The Usual Suspects." Admission is free, as are almost all of its many events: gallery tours, lectures, films, workshops for teens and family activities.

Hotel Indigo Athens

500 College Ave. • 706-546-0430 • indigoathens.com

Curated by Lilly McEachern, ArtWall@Hotel Indigo presents quarterly rotating shows of small scale works with thematic focuses. Located outdoors and viewable 24/7, GlassCube@Hotel Indigo is a literal glass cube housing creative installations. The hotel also features a handful of local artists such as Mark Steinmetz, Brittany Lauback, Alex Murawski and Rebecca Kreisler in its permanent collection.

Indie South

470 Hawthorne Ave. • 706-850-0644 • theindiesouth.com

After establishing itself as one of the largest handmade markets in the Southeast, Indie South opened a brick-and-mortar boutique full of artisan, handcrafted and vintage goods, rare plants, crystals, jewelry, books, decor, unique gifts and more. The space, which also houses its own screen printing studio, now stocks several popular artists including David Hale and Chris Hubbard. In between huge biannual craft fairs, Indie South hosts creative classes and pop-up markets.

Public Art Projects to Check Out

Art Decko: Organized by the Athens Area Arts Council, Art Decko is a series of nine large-scale paintings installed on each floor of the Vertical Gallery, an unconventional stairwell-turned-art space in the College Avenue Parking Deck. Artists include Ashley Anderson (paying tribute to the 20th anniversary of Neutral Milk Hotel's In the Airplane Over the Sea), Jared Brown, Jeremy Kiran Fernandes, Ruth Allen, Jacob Wenzka, Hannah Betzel, Will Eskridge, Jeanne Whatley and Dorian Edwards. athensarts.org

Art Shelters: Serving transit riders while also injecting creativity into the built environment, many of Athens-Clarke County Transit's bus shelters double as public art. The program produced 11 art shelters between two phases in 2005 and 2011 as a partnership between ACC Transit and the Athens Area Arts Council called "You, Me and the Bus." Under the guidance of the Athens Cultural Affairs Commission, ACC Transit added a new round of 13 art shelters and an additional 20 artist-designed laser cut shelters in 2020. Look out for Joni Younkins-Herzog's giant pillbug on Lexington Road and Richard Herzog's larger-than-life ginkgo leaves on North Avenue. accgov.com/9591/Art-Shelters

Athens Creative Directory: Organized by the Athens-Clarke County Economic Development Department and CREATE Athens (a division of Envision Athens), the Athens Creative Directory serves as a hub for finding and interacting with creatives working in a variety of disciplines. Visit athenscreatives.directory to search through profiles of artists, musicians, writers and more. athenscreatives.directory

Athens Mural Alley: Located downtown in between Clayton and Washington streets, the new Athens Mural Alley activates an otherwise overlooked alley into a walk-through art experience. Artists include John Ahee, Tayler Ayers, Luka Carter, Maria Elias, Elinor Saragoussi Phillips, Tori Watson and Beaux Xavier. The series joins Taylor Shaw's "ATHENS Mural," which resembles a vintage "Greetings from..." postcard and celebrates the Classic City as a musical mecca. Part of the Athens Music Walk of Fame, the mural depicts a collage of local music references embedded into the block letters: Pylon, Widespread Panic, The B-52's and more. accgov.com/9971/Athens-Mural-Alley-Project

Cobham Triangle Park: Occupying the slice of land nestled between Prince Avenue, Cobb and Harris streets, the Cobham Triangle Park is a neighborhood gathering spot accentuated by public art. Highlights include an entranceway designed by St. Udio, a mosaic sitting wall called "Flow" by Krysia Ara, a towering sculpture called "Spirit of Inspiration" by Harold Rittenberry, a new "Venus Flower of Love" sculpture by Steve Sweetser and granite sculptures by Stan Mullins for games of chess and ping pong. Cobham Triangle Park on facebook.com

Fire Up the Hydrants: A project of the Athens-Clarke County Public Utilities Department, Fire Up the Hydrants transformed 20 ordinary hydrants into functional, life-saving works of art. Spread across downtown, the hydrants were cleverly hand-painted by local artists, including Sarah Cook, Ashley Crain, Megan Reeves, Lilli Sams and Dan Smith. accgov.com/7057/Fire-Up-the-Hydrants

Hope: Located downtown on the exterior walls of Epiphany Athens and The Rook & Pawn, David Hale's mural, "Hope," depicts barn swallows—a symbol of rebirth and hope—flying across a prismatic, rainbow-colored sky. "Hope" celebrates the 25th anniversary of the AthFest Mural and Arts Festival, and replaced "BirdSong," Hale's mural of 20 species of native songbirds that was commissioned by AthFest Educates to commemorate the festival's 20th anniversary. athfesteducates.org

Hot Corner—An Athens Legacy: Located at the corner of Lumpkin and Washington streets, "Hot Corner: An Athens Legacy" is dedicated to the rich history of Hot Corner, a hub of African-American entrepreneurship. Organized by the Athens Cultural Affairs Commission with support from a National Endowment for the Arts grant, the mural was created by Miami-based muralist Elio Mercado and local artist Broderick Flanigan. facebook.com/HotCornerORG

Project Ginkgo: Beautifying the concrete bases of light poles with intricate mosaics, Krysia Ara's Project Ginkgo adds glittering charm and color into the downtown landscape. Funded by the Athens Downtown Development Authority, each design is unique and can be found outside of Flicker Theatre and Bar, The World Famous, Morton Theatre, Epiphany, Creature Comforts, Musician's Warehouse, Ciné, Chamber of Commerce, Post Office, Last Resort and Ted's Most Best. creativeflow.art

Rainbow Forest: Visible from Martin Luther King Parkway on the North Oconee River Greenway, "Rainbow Forest" is a new public art installation by Los Angeles-based designer Andrew Kovacs, who worked alongside local artist assistants Eli Saragoussi and Patrick Sprague. Supported by the Athens Cultural Affairs Commission and unveiled last August, the installation consists of a grid of 36 brightly colored columns. athensculturalaffairs.org

Sculptures and Murals: Athens' most recognizable sculptures are a series of giant bulldogs painted in colorful designs. To see more sculptures, visit Steve Sweetser's kinetic "Tree of Oneta" near the historic Southern Mill complex or Abbot Pattison's infamous "Iron Horse" on Athens Highway in Watkinsville. Popular murals include Eleanor Davis' at home.made, Dave Jenkins' at Last Resort Grill, Anthony Wislar at Creature Comforts Brewery, Jamie Calkin at Flowerland and Michael Ross at Procoat Painting. flagpole.com

The K.A. Artist Shop

127 N. Jackson St. • 706-850-1224 • kaartist.com

A one-stop shop for all artist supply needs, K.A. hosts occasional group exhibitions that are typically hung in eclectic salon-style arrangements. The shop also offers photography services and workshops for all ages.

Lyndon House Arts Center

211 Hoyt St. • 706-613-3623 • accgov.com/lyndonhouse

Run by Athens-Clarke County, the arts center displays professional exhibitions in large, sunny galleries upstairs and down, while the Ware-Lyndon House museum offers a glimpse into Athens' past through period decor and artifacts. In addition to offering classes instructed by professional artists, summer camps and the occasional festival, the center serves as meeting grounds for local craft groups. A gift shop features items created by regional artists. The 47th annual "Juried Exhibition" showcases talents from Athens and surrounding counties.

Madison-Morgan Cultural Center

434 S. Main St., Madison • 706-342-4743 • mmcc-arts.org

The nonprofit is outside of Athens in a beautifully restored 1895 Romanesque Revival building. Programming ranges from visual art exhibitions to performing arts, and annual events include an antiques show, chamber music festival and tour of homes. Permanent exhibitions include a 1895 schoolroom, a gallery of original furnishings from the Arts and Crafts Period, a museum of Piedmont history and a series of portraits by George Andrews aka "The Dot Man."

Oconee Cultural Arts Foundation (OCAF)

34 School St., Watkinsville • 706-769-4565 • ocaf.com

Centered in a renovated turn-of-the-century schoolhouse, OCAF is a nonprofit that promotes performing, visual and literary arts through a range of exhibitions and classes for all ages. Longstanding annual events include "Southworks," a national juried art exhibition; "Perspectives," the Georgia pottery invitational; a members exhibition; and a holiday market. Smaller exhibitions are hosted in a converted classroom adjacent to the main gallery.

Porcelain and Decorative Arts Museum

2450 S. Milledge Ave. • 706-542-1244

Located at the State Botanical Garden of Georgia, the Porcelain and Decorative Arts Museum opened in 2021 to showcase the personal collection of Deen Day Sanders. The state-of-the-art facility blends conservation, art and history.

The Quiet Gallery

2025 Baxter St. • 706-613-3650 • athenslibrary.org

Nestled on the second floor of the Athens-Clarke County Library, the Quiet Gallery is a comfortable reading room with rotating exhibitions celebrating established local artists.

STEEL + PLANK

675 Pulaski St., Suite 200 • 706-850-7980 • steelandplank.com

Owned by Kelley Bishop, STEEL + PLANK produces sustainable and minimalist furniture made possible through its own architecture firm, STUDIO.BNA, and fabrication studio, Very Dark Gray. In addition to handcrafted kitchenware and home goods, the shop displays decorative artwork. Makers and artists are highlighted during pop-ups.

Tif Sigfrid

393 N. Finley St. • info@tifsigfrids.com • tifsigfrids.com

Owner Tif Sigfrids first relocated her gallery from Los Angeles to downtown Athens, then moved further out to Comer, and is now back in Athens as well as New York City. Exhibitions showcase contemporary artists.

tiny ATH gallery

174 Cleveland Ave. • tinyathgallery@gmail.com • tinyathgallery.com

Activities for Kids

World of Wonder at Southeast Clarke Park

GO PLAY OUTSIDE

Athens-Clarke County has more than a dozen playgrounds, each with its unique set of slides and surroundings. If you're looking for open fields instead of swings, check out the open areas around the extensive playground at Southeast Clarke Park (325 Whit Davis Road). If you're looking for a smaller neighborhood playground, check out Reese and Pope Park (375 Reese St.) or Boulevard Woods (298 Barber St.). Note that parks may close a few hours each week for regular maintenance, so check out accgov.com/2550/Playgrounds for schedules and the full list of locations.

If you want to head into the woods, find trails and a new naturescape play area at Sandy Creek Nature Center (205 Old Commerce Road and also accessible via the Greenway). Southeast Clarke Park has wooded trails connecting its two locations. There's also the Birchmore Trail at Memorial Park (293 Gran Ellen Drive), and Ben Burton Park (615 Mitchell Bridge Road) has walking routes along the river.

Beyond county parks, there are also extensive trails at the State Botanical Garden of Georgia (2450 S. Milledge Ave.) that will take you along the North Oconee River and through restored wetlands. Use the boardwalk to explore the floodplain, or check out the recent native grasses restoration project. Along with the specimen gardens, don't miss the Alice H. Richards Children's Garden. And UGA's Oconee Forest Park (110 Lake Herrick Drive), beside the intramural fields, offers a trail system around Lake Herrick. You can even bring your fishing poles.

SPEED IT UP

Lake Herrick also allows non-motorized boating, so it's a good spot to try out a canoe or kayak with the kids. Sandy Creek Park's Lake Chapman (400 Bob Holman Road) is also a good option for putting in your own watercraft or renting one from the county (weather and staff permitting). Note that admission to the park is $2/person for ages 4–64. Ben Burton Park also offers a spot to launch your canoe or kayak.

NATURE

ATHENS-CLARKE COUNTY
LEISURE SERVICES

If the kids want to take out the bikes, skateboards or scooters, you have options. For gently rolling paved trails through much of downtown Athens, check out the Greenway's network. You can connect from Sandy Creek Nature Center to Dudley Park, the Firefly Trail and South Campus (accgov.com/greenway). If you haven't explored the latest section of the Firefly Trail through downtown Winterville, it's worth the ride. Or take your bikes off-road at Walker Park (200 Trail Creek St.), which has several trails maintained by the local chapter of the Southern Off-Road Bicycle Association (sorbaathens.com). You can also find paved trails at Bishop Park (705 Sunset Drive), Southeast Clarke Park (the opposite side from the playground, at 4440 Lexington Road) and Memorial Park.

LEARN AROUND US

The Lyndon House Arts Center (211 Hoyt St.) is open for socially distanced viewing of its art exhibitions and has multiple exhibitions on display at any time. Youth classes are now scheduled, so check accgov.com/lyndonhouse for details. The Georgia Museum of Art (90 Carlton St.) is open with timed ticketing in the galleries and programming for children and teens. Some events are in-person while some remain virtual, so check georgiamuseum.org for upcoming themes and details.

In addition to trails at Sandy Creek Nature Center, kids can now learn inside and out. The naturescape play area gives kids a space to investigate while they play, and inside the center they can explore STEM topics such as electricity, our food, planets and pollinators. It makes for a cool option on a hot afternoon. For more natural wonders, visit the animals at Memorial Park's Bear Hollow Zoo (and visit the ducks at the nearby pond—but please don't bring bread!).

The libraries in the Athens Regional Library System rotate storytime events that are both in-person and virtual. Visit www.athenslibrary.org for updates, or drop in to the Athens-Clarke County Library (2025 Baxter St.) to just experience the space and the helpful children's librarians.

To help give kids a glimpse of Athens history, drop by the Historic Athens Welcome Center (280 E. Dougherty St.) or the Ware-Lyndon House adjacent to the Lyndon House Arts Center. Both are open for self-guided tours during business hours, and the Welcome Center also offers kid-friendly scavenger hunts and online tours of other notable buildings on its Facebook page.

Parks & Recreation

State Botanical Garden of Georgia

Athens

has lots of public parks, some of which are connected by the North Oconee River Greenway, which features several scenic miles of walking and biking paths. Amenities vary and are indicated by symbols on this page. Picnic shelters must be rented ahead of time at most parks. Athens' only public golf course is the UGA Golf Course, at 2600 Riverbend Road; Lane Creek Golf Club is in nearby Bishop. Athens-Clarke County government also has a "Park Finder" app to help match users with locations that fit their amenity selections. For a complete list of all parks and recreation areas, please visit accgov.com/parks.

Athens Music

10 Things to Know About Athens Music

1. It's (Not) Only Rock and Roll

Athens is known for its contributions to the rock and roll canon—our lil' town birthed R.E.M., the B-52s, Pylon, Widespread Panic, Neutral Milk Hotel, of Montreal and Drive-By Truckers, among others—but there's a lot more going on locally. Hip hop continues to boom, and the Latinx scene is hot, too. Roots music, including country and Americana, can be found just about everywhere, as can experimental and genre-defying acts.

2. Music Venues Range in Size and Focus

Though the live entertainment industry has been severely impacted by the pandemic, Athens is still home to a remarkably high number of music venues, given its population size. The best bets for catching major touring acts have always been the 40 Watt Club and Georgia Theatre, while Southern Brewing Company, Flicker Theatre & Bar, Hendershot's Coffee Bar and Nowhere Bar are dependable choices for catching local bands any night of the week.

3. Festivals Happen Year-Round

While the pandemic threw a wrench into many yearly traditions, most festivals have been able to continue with virtual or modified protocols in place. Spring stays busy between the Athens Human Rights Festival and International Street Festival. The hip hop- and gospel-centric Hot Corner Celebration takes place in early summer, followed by Athens' flagship event, the AthFest Music and Arts Festival. In fall, the North Georgia Folk Festival livens Sandy Creek Park, LatinxFest fills downtown with performances, Historic Athens PorchFest takes over neighborhoods and the Wild Rumpus Parade & Spectacle is a Halloween-time hoot.

4. It's Kid-Friendly

As more Athenians start families, there's been an increased focus on kid-centric music and music education. The leader of the pack is Nuçi's Space, a resource center that offers health services to musicians, plus rehearsal rooms and Camp Amped, where local youth learn to start their own bands. We Rock Athens operates a similar program for female and nonbinary kiddos, while Full Moon Studio serves nearby Watkinsville with summer camps and biannual "rockcitals."

5. There's an Athens Music Walk of Fame

The Athens Music Walk of Fame debuted in 2020 to honor the movers and shakers who helped place our town on the map as a musical destination, and new inductees are added every year. The walk recognizes honorees with bronze plaques that are embedded along a route that passes notable music venues. An interactive mobile app offers additional sights and sounds associated with each honoree.

6. Tune In to Turn On

You can hear local music all over the airwaves, starting with WUOG 90.5 FM, UGA's student-run station that broadcasts "Live in the Lobby" performances every Tuesday and Thursday. University-chartered NPR affiliate WUGA 91.7 and 94.5 FM airs "Sound of Athens" and "New South Showcase," segments of live concert recordings.

7. See Athens on the Screen

Tony Gayton's 1987 documentary Athens, GA: Inside/Out is essential viewing for any aspiring local music buff for its interviews and live footage from the mid-80s scene. For a glimpse into today's cultural landscape, check out local filmmaker James Preston's pair of documentaries Athens Rising: The Sicyon Project and Athens Rising 2: Transmittance (both free at athensrising.com), which compile vignettes of DIY house shows, festivals, performance art, comedy, restaurants and other interesting local organizations and independent businesses. Released in 2021, Red Turns Into Blue: Athens, Inside-Out 2 follows up on multiple performers who appeared in the first film, then introduces several popular artists of today.

8. It's a Recording Destination

Behind the tremendous number of albums churned out by up-and-coming artists each year are the recording studios in and around Athens that perfect and preserve their work. Chase Park Transduction, The Glow Recording Studio, Piggpen Studios, Full Moon Studio and several others stay busy year-round. Tweed Recording Audio Production School, a world-class facility located downtown, aims to train the next generation of audio professionals.

9. There's Culture on Campus

Though its sheer size and a lack of effective town-gown communication can make the university seem intimidating to newcomers, its cultural programming is open to the public and worth taking advantage of. The Performing Arts Center brings in acclaimed classical and world-music artists, with the 2022–23 season including Edgar Meyer and The Scottish Ensemble, George Hinkchcliffe's Ukulele Orchestra of Great Britain, The Milk Carton Kids, and Béla Fleck and Abigail Washburn.

10. Flagpole Has You Covered

Trust us when we say that Flagpole is your No. 1 source for all things Athens music, from the weekly print edition and comprehensive events calendar to our online premieres, photo galleries, live reviews and beyond. Covering local music was our founding mission, and it remains an integral part of who we are at Flagpole and what we do.

Athens is emerging as a true craft beer destination and is now home to six local breweries offering a huge variety of microbrews. If you'd like to sample their work, you can check out their tasting rooms on-site or you can purchase cans or crowlers (aluminum growlers) to go. Native brews are available in bars and restaurants across town, and there's also the Classic City Brew Fest on Oct. 1, which brings beer lovers into Athens from all over.

Akademia Brewing Company

150 Crane Dr. • 678-726-2288 • akademiabc.com

Unique among Athens' local breweries, Akademia sports a full food menu seven days a week, including brunch. Located on Atlanta Highway near the mall, Akademia has ample space to spread out, both outside on its expansive patio and inside in a large, rentable event space capable of seating 100 people. If you're in a hurry, they've got crowlers to go, which you can fill up with anything on tap to enjoy later. Their beer selection is as diverse as ever, ranging from dark and bold with coffee stouts, winter warmers and barleywine brews, to light and refreshing with pale ales, fruited goses, lagers and pilsners—and standbys like Akademia Premium, an American lager.

Athentic Brewing Company

108 Park Ave. • 706-206-2074 • athenticbrewing.com

One of Athens' newest breweries, Authentic is located in the historic Boulevard neighborhood. Designed from the beginning as a music venue, Authentic regularly hosts live music on its spacious patio and indoor stage along with other performances like drag shows by House of Femme. Depending on availability, you'll be able to pick from a variety of brews, including Escape Button, a tropical IPA, Floodgate, a Japanese rice lager, and Upright Hermit, a dry stout. They were the first brewery in Athens to create a line of hard seltzers and regularly offer a variety of seltzer slushies.

Creature Comforts Brewing Company

271 W. Hancock Ave. • 706-410-1043 • creaturecomfortsbeer.com

If you're a beer connoisseur in Athens, you already know that Creature Comforts has a convenient downtown location, a spacious and delightful patio and some of the best beer in town, including their ever-popular Tropicália IPA. The brewery also hosts food trucks, along with art, music and the Athens Farmers Market every Wednesday from April through November. Spring seasonal offerings this year include Athena Paradiso, a gently tart German-style wheat beer, and Galactic Space Circus, a hazy IPA made with galaxy hops. They also have a large selection of special offerings and limited releases sold in bottles.

Normaltown Brewing Company

149 Oneta St. • 706-850-8996 • facebook.com/Normaltownbrewingco

Nestled in a cozy corner of the Chase Street Warehouses in between Oneta and Tracy streets, Normaltown Brewing is the smallest of Athens' microbreweries. They've expanded to seven taps and continuously rotate their selections, so new beers will come available often. When visiting, you can expect a sour from their Sun Tan series to be on tap along with a hazy, New England-style IPA such as Summon the Fog. They'll also keep a stout and a lower-ABV beer, like a blonde or pilsner, on tap for you to enjoy. You can sample these brews on-site or take anything they've got home with you in a crowler.

Southern Brewing Company

231 Collins Industrial Blvd. • 706-548-7183 • sobrewco.com

Most know Southern Brewing for its wide selection of delicious craft beers, including old favorites like Hobnail IPA, the Red and Black fruited sour and Midnight Train porter, but did you know it's also a music venue? Head out to their five-acre yard and large, open-air warehouse to catch live performances or just relax at the bar. A new, as of yet unnamed, tangerine wheat beer will be rolling over to the taps as you read this. You might also be glad to learn that 7AM, Southern's light, American-style lager brewed with lime, will now be available year-round.

Terrapin Beer Company

265 Newton Bridge Road • 706-549-3377 • terrapiinbeer.com

In a warehouse on Newton Bridge Road with an indoor tasting room and a huge lawn, Athens' OG brewery hosts live music regularly and lots of annual events, weather permitting. Sample old favorites like the sessionable Recreation Ale, Sound Czech pilsner or Hopsecutioner IPA. Special selections this year include Frenchy's Blues, a Berliner Weisse brewed with blueberries in collaboration with former Braves outfielder and current TV announcer Jeff Francoeur, and Blood Orange Dreamsicle Imperial IPA. Both are available in cans you can take home with you. In 2022, Terrapin completes 20 years of making beer in Athens, so be sure to keep an eye out for their anniversary party!

Restaurant & Bar Listings

Big City Bread

1000 Faces Coffee

510 N. Thomas St. • 706-534-8860
1000facescoffee.com

FILE UNDER: Coffee Houses. FEATURES: Counter service, Wi-Fi. HOURS: Seven days. • A coffee place that's very passionate about its coffee, which is roasted in the same building for maximum freshness. Also: tea, other drinks, bags of coffee, coffee accessories and light snacks. Coffees on offer change out frequently. $

The 11th Pin

555 Macon Hwy. • 706-548-1028
11thpinathens.com

FILE UNDER: Sandwiches, Burgers and Chicken. FEATURES: Beer and wine, catering, counter service, delivery. HOURS: Lunch and dinner. • Standard bowling alley food inside Showtime Bowl (chicken fingers, fries, pretzels, wings, pizza) but slightly nicer than average. Beers by the bucket include local and craft brews, or you can do hard seltzers in bulk. $

1785 Bar & Grill

420 E. Clayton St. • (443) 579-5566
1785athens.com

FILE UNDER: Bars and Clubs. FEATURES: Full bar, DJs. • Big college bar that gets its name from the year UGA was chartered. Also serves food (burgers, wings, tacos, nachos, loaded fries, salads), which means it's open Sundays. Margarita towers, pitchers of domestics. Poker Mondays, Taco Tuesdays, Wing Wednesdays. $

9d's Bar Plus

400 Clayton St. • 706-461-0268
facebook.com/9dsbar

FILE UNDER: Bars and Clubs. FEATURES: Full bar, DJs/live music. • College kids sweat it out on the dance floor to (mostly) '90s jams. Buy a tallboy, shot or mixed drink for dancing fuel. Also: Zima to go with the theme. $

Add Drug Store

1695 S. Lumpkin St. • 706-548-2239
add-drugstore.com/lunch-counter

FILE UNDER: American. HOURS: Breakfast and lunch. FEATURES: Counter service. • Opened in 1961, this soda fountain and lunch counter inside a pharmacy hasn't changed much since then. Grab a stool and watch the cooks make your fries and burgers. Real cherry and vanilla sodas, plus malts, milkshakes and floats. A serious bargain. $

Agua Linda Mexican Restaurant & Cantina

2080 Timothy Road • 706-543-0154
1376 Prince Ave. • 706-543-1500
agualindarestaurant.com

FILE UNDER: Mexican and Latin American. FEATURES: Full bar, catering, outside seating, delivery. HOURS: Lunch and dinner, seven days. • A mix of Americanized Mexican and more authentic stuff, which means it pleases everyone. Family atmosphere. Normaltown location recently opened a gorgeous rooftop bar with a mural and nice views after a major renovation. The restaurant's La Carreta food truck continues to pop up around town, including at breweries, and has great birria tacos. $$

Ahi Hibachi & Poke

489 E. Clayton St. • 706-543-8898
ahihibachi.com

FILE UNDER: Asian, Vegetarian Friendly. FEATURES: Counter service, take-out, delivery. HOURS: Lunch and dinner, seven days. • It's not fancy, but its poke is right on, with loads of topping choices (raw and cooked). Vegetarian options, hibachi, fried rice, noodles and basic soups and salads. $$

Akademia Brewing Co.

150 Crane Dr., Bogart • 678-726-2288
akademiabc.com

FILE UNDER: American, Bars and Clubs. FEATURES: Beer, live music, trivia. HOURS: Lunch and dinner, seven days. Brunch. • Unlike most breweries, this one has a full restaurant of its own as well as a really wide variety of brews. Beer (available in flights) is featured in many dishes, and the menu goes beyond fried cheese to actual entrees (and flatbreads, burgers, seafood, pasta). $$$

Allgood Lounge

allgoodlounge.com

FILE UNDER: Bars and Clubs. FEATURES: Full bar, outside seating. HOURS: Opens earlier than most bars. • Two floors plus a rooftop tiki bar and TVs. Hundreds of drink options, including a build-your-own bloody mary bar. Twenty rotating beers, 55 whiskeys, 18 tequilas and over 200 bottled beers, one of the best selections in town. $
